October 20 The International Chefs Day

DEAR COLLEAGUES, STUDENTS, GRADUATES, AND PARTNERS OF THE UNIVERSITY, PROFESSIONALS AND AMATEURS OF THE CULINARY ART!

The most urgent problem today is overcoming the military aggression of the Russian Federation against Ukraine, the restoration of all spheres of the economy of our state, and, most importantly, preserving the nation's human potential and providing food safety!

As a result of the military conflict in Ukraine, the disadvantages of the world food systems, and the destruction of logistics chains, the global food system is currently experiencing an unprecedented crisis. This causes an urgent need to find food reserves and alternative sources of food products, the introduction of technological innovations, etc.

In such a difficult time for our country, the profession of chef becomes extremely important. With your hard work, you every day provide the most important nutritional needs of various spheres of the population. Today, you are on the culinary front - you provide combat capability of human potential of the Armed Forces of Ukraine, and you support the health of refugees, wounded and socially unprotected part of our population.

We respect you for your self-sacrificing and such important hard work!
Sincerely I congratulate you on the International Chefs Day!

With unshakable faith in victory, I wish everyone peace, courage, and patience, inspiration for creating new achievements and culinary accomplishments in the name of the prosperity of our independent Ukraine!

Sincerely yours,

The President of the Ukrainian Culinary Union,
the rector of SUTE, professor

Anatolii Mazaraki
